

From the Man About Town

Undaunted by the H. C. L. and refusing to disbelieve that one can live on love, 25 Hammond young men have each posted $500 in a Chicago bank as a guaranty that they will marry within 30 days.

Preposterous as the capricious wager may seem, the facts to substantiate the statement are well grounded and efforts of the young men to hide the novel method pursued to attain marital bliss, have all-but failed. Word of the unusual project blew outward from the metropolis recently and although names of the men and their intended brides are mercifully suppressed until culmination of the nuptials, details of the plan by which a man must marry or lose half-a-thousand and achieve the undying scorn of his fellows, have been written from participants of the "Marry or Go-Broke Club." It is known that the club comprises 25 members. All are Hammond men, either natives or are working here. They are engaged in the more lucrative professions such as plumbing, gas fitting, telephone repairing and other mechanical trades. Several of them own automobiles. All of them own load-neck ties and a lot of shirts. Each of the young men placed $500 in a Chicago bank. Each must marry within 30 days or forfeit the money which will be divided amongst the others. Sixteen of them already have signified their intention of going through with the bet and will hold a joint celebration in Chicago late in July. Other members are expected to climb on the band wagon. One minister, one hall, one wedding supper, one kind of music and all of one thought. The occasion will indeed be unique. Word of the club and its purpose was wafted to Hammond recently when a persistent salesman for a furniture house there inquired for a well known Hammond man. "But he's not going to be married," replied the Hammond man's friend to the salesman. The salesman insisted that he knew better—had the inside "dope"—was going to clean up a neat little fortune himself in furniture sales to the whole "G" club so there! The cat was out of the bag and although the names of the swains and their sweethearts are not generally known the whole thing will be divulged with pictures and all on a date not distant.
